

The Oregon Republican.
COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
DALLAS, SATURDAY, JUNE 18.

Some Man's Fortune.

It is known in all parts of the Union that Oregon is comparatively a new State, and that there are many localities where capitalists can invest their money with the certainty of realizing princely fortunes in the near future. Since there is a likelihood of the Humboldt railroad going into Rogue River Valley the region of country about Link river is one of great importance. Link river is a stream containing half as much water as the Willamette at Salem. It connects the upper Klamath Lake with the lower one, and is about a mile long; in that distance there is a fall of sixty or seventy feet in a succession of cascades. The bed of the stream is solid rock. The difference between high and low water mark is not more than thirty inches. We consider it the best water power in the State.

The Lake above is about forty miles long and in places twenty miles wide, with water sufficient to float boats as large as any on the Willamette river. Williamson river is also navigable for a considerable distance. There is more navigation in the Klamath Lake country than in the Willamette Valley.

On the east side of the Lake fine grazing lands stretch away for miles. On the west lie the Cascade Mountains with a heavy growth of timber down to the very brink of the Lake. The timber for lumbering purposes cannot be excelled, and it is easy of access too. Rafts can be made of any size and floated to the mills on Link river. The distance to carry these rafts is not more than 15 or 20 miles.

If the railroad is built to that neighborhood, lumber mills would have Nevada and all the intervening country for a market.

Aside from the lumbering interests, there is no locality offering greater inducements to parties desiring to erect woolen factories. The wool is produced on the spot, and only the dye stuffs must be imported. Link River, some day will be the location of a thriving manufacturing city.

Election Returns.

The official vote of the State has not yet been announced, and we have not heard the official count from all the counties west of the Cascade Mountains. We give below the majorities estimated and official, as we have been able to gather from our latest exchanges. The vote is on Congressmen:

Democratic majority.....318

In this report some counties are not given for the reason that we have no reports from them. We think the result will not vary many votes from these figures. Three precincts heard from in Grant county, give 41 Republican majority. There is doubt about how the Legislature will stand. If Grant county has elected Republicans and the contest in Wasco shall be in favor of us, we will have a majority of one in the House.

Theodore Clay, son of Henry Clay the statesman, died last month in a Kentucky Insane Asylum, at the advanced age of 60 years. He had been an inmate of the institution for thirty years. He was a young man of great promise, and at the age of 30 was one of the most promising lawyers at the Kentucky bar, but having formed an attachment for a young lady who discouraged his attentions and refused his proposals, he became insane and so remained until the time of his death.

The Oregonian thinks that Slater's majority in the State will be about 200.

Lay Delegation.

The Methodist Conferences of the United States have all voted on the question of Lay Delegation, with the following result: Ayes, 4,947; nays, 1,627, counting the vote of the East Maine Conference as now reported forty-three to fourteen, but that body having ninety three members, the thirty six, should any considerable number of them record their votes in the negative, may change the relative proportions to the defeat of the measure. As the tally now stands there is an excess for the measure, under the three-fourths rule of the discipline, of but twenty-two. The Conference of Germany and Switzerland, which is to meet on the 16th of June, to attend which Bishop Simpson is about to sail for Europe, has yet to vote. This Conference has forty-five members. The great and grave question, therefore, is seriously to affect and so radically to change the government of the strongest church in America, is left to the decision of foreigners, to a mission Conference. How its members will vote is unknown, but it is believed they will support the measure. That Bishop Simpson is to preside over them when the election shall be had is a favorable indication. The most intense interest will pervade the church, and not only the church, but all progressive people, until the decision of the foreign Conference shall be known.

This measure of Lay Delegation originated in Oregon about 12 years ago and was for a long time denominated by Eastern church men, the Oregon Lay Delegation system. The measure is one that is purely American and peculiarly the offspring of a new country where the people have breathed the air of simple freedom. If the Lay Delegation system shall be adopted, one more link in the chain of arbitrary rule will have been broken, and the people will, ere long rule in church affairs as they now do in State.

The plan of lay representation and its operations, should it be adopted, a paper of the church states in brief as follows: It goes only to the General Conference, which sits every fourth year, in the month of May—the next regular session being in 1872. Each Annual Conference is entitled to two lay delegates.—The various districts in the Annual Conference elect delegates, which meet at the seat of the Annual Conference next before the meeting of the General Conference, on the second day of the session, and select by ballot two representatives, who shall sit in the General Conference with equal power and authority as the clergy. The clerical and lay votes may be taken separately, if called for by the Conference, and in case the clergy vote one way and the laity the other, the total vote shall decide the disagreement.

Charles Dickens, the celebrated English novelist, is dead. There is perhaps no writer who has had his productions so widely read, during his lifetime, as Dickens. He had no equal in the matter of describing his characters, and this quality has made his writings appear tedious to many readers. He leveled his shafts of wit, sarcasm and criticism at snobbing, whether he found it in high or low circles, and yet he, himself, was a snob. America can never name Dickens as a friend; his visits to this country were those of fault finding and money getting. But with all his faults, Dickens has left a literature that will be standard in its line.

The Democratic News exulting over the late election says, Oregon is redeemed, thank God, from the thralldom to which she has been subjected by the Williamsses, the Woodses, and Gibbsses, and Cookses.

Just so, and we suppose, of course, the News desires to pass the State quickly into the hands of the Lanesses, the Fayses, the Shielses, and the Whiteakeres, and Jones families. Go it you rebels, your rule will end in 1872.

The Jacksonville News is particularly severe on the Democrats in Jackson county who refused to vote the Democratic ticket. By the tone of that paper, it would seem that Democrats are owned by the party, and must ratify what is set up by the conventions, or, in other words, that Democrats are not freemen.

The Election in Wasco County.

A correspondent writing to the Oregonian from Dallas City gives the following history of the proceedings had in that county on election day:

Democrats pretend that the poll books from two Republican precincts have not yet come in, and Republicans suspect that Democrats do not intend to have them come within the ten days provided by law. If they are not in it will be because Democrats deem it necessary to keep them out in order to "elect" their candidates, to all of whom they will give certificates, which they can do with as much propriety and more honesty than many other things they have done.

According to returns, majorities in this county stand thus: Wilson 8; Grover 8; Chadwick 5; Fleischner 6; Patterson 6; McArthur 2; Lasswell 3; Waldron, (Rep.) Representative, over Fulron 1; Savage, (Dem.) over Rowland, 20; Wood, (Rep.) Commissioner, 2; Fitzgerald, (Dem.) Commissioner, 12; Holland, (Dem.) Clerk, 14; Ird, (Dem.) Sheriff, 30; Ruch, (Rep.) Treasurer, 2.

All of the men at work on the mines not in the county over 90 days before commencing work were ruled out on the county ticket, and some on State ticket. Five votes were rejected because they had not taken out their full citizen papers six months before the election, though they were honorably discharged soldiers, and had been admitted to citizenship within the last two months.

Several Republicans were driven away by the judges, and not allowed to vote, although they were well known residents of the county and offered to take the oath provided by law. We are legally and justly entitled to not less than ten votes on the State and 40 on the county ticket that were rejected. We can throw out from ten to twenty that voted their tickets illegally. Not less than eight (perhaps more) of their men were allowed to vote for Representatives, and five their entire county ticket, in other precincts than where they reside.

They have beaten us only by the most villainous and outrageous frauds. And if we submit now we can never hope to have another election with the least degree of honesty or fairness. We shall go after them and crowd the rascally judges to the bitter end. I am entirely confident we can make it cost them dearly. Upon a contest we will secure every county official. We are going to the bottom of the matter.

During the late campaign the Albany Democrat denounced Fay's repudiation disengagement letter, and desired that it should be distinctly understood that Fay was not a Democrat.

The election is over, and now Fay's organ, the Democratic News, claims that Mr. Fay, with his disengagement principles, has succeeded by eleven majority, and comes back at Mr. Democrat, and charges it with being a subsidized sheet, and with lending its ready aid to defeat the Democratic candidate for State Senator in Jackson county.

Them's the licks! Hurrah for the Democracy; go after them Fay, for it is as you say, the repudiation disengagement plank is all that is left of modern Democracy, stand by your colors. Skin him Mr. Democrat, for if Fay's disengagement principle succeeds, you are gone to the devil sure. Who will succeed Judge Williams, eh? Shoo fly!

Gounsky, a tailor in Salem, was arrested this week charged with voting two times on election day. We have not learned the result of the trial, but from what evidence that was disclosed, it appears that Gounsky voted for State and District officers at Aurora precinct, and then in the afternoon voted at Salem the District and county ticket again.

ELECTION IN 1838 AND 1870.—The Oregonian in making comparisons between the results of the election two years ago, and the contest just decided, says: Two years ago the counties of Multnomah, Marion, Polk, Washington, Yamhill, Douglas, Lape, Linn, Clackamas, Clatsop and Columbia gave Logan 7,449 and Smith 7,487. The Republican gain in the counties that have been fully reported, as compared with the vote in the last election for Congressmen, is 574. The Democratic loss in the same counties is 145, which makes the net Republican gain in eleven counties 719.

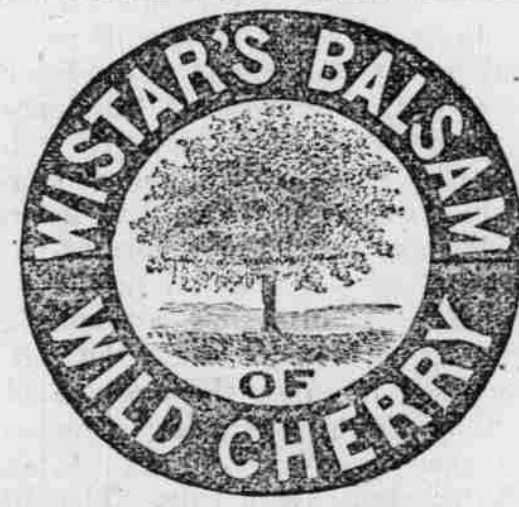

A Pennsylvania widower with four children married a widow with nine, and now he is browsing around after a divorce. He prayed for his own offspring at family prayers, but wouldn't put up a petition for hers, and she "went for" him with a skillet.

We are gratified to ascertain that Judge Boise is positively re-elected. The contest in his District was very close. His majority is small, but sure. The colored vote saved him. We hope that Judge Boise will evince less disposition to oppose negro suffrage hereafter.—Oregonian.

Judge Boise is our neighbor, and from what we know of his course on the subject of negro or universal suffrage, we consider it far more consistent than that of the Oregonian for the last four years: and further, we believe that Judge Boise, and not the Oregonian, reflects the sentiments of three-fourths of the Union Republican party in Oregon on that subject. We take the liberty to say this much, because of our acquaintance with, and our high appreciation of the ability, integrity, sound judgment and wisdom of Judge Boise.

The Oregonian asserts that the Albany Democrat says Oregon is "saved." Precisely so. Saved, we suppose, by the election of Fay, the gentleman from Jackson, who was read out of the party a short time since by the Albany Democrat. Put on your shield, Mr. Democrat, and wear it until after September next, for we speak advisedly when we tell you that Mr. Fay, the repudiator, is on the fight, and will tear down your fortification at the next Legislature.
